Age-Friendly Communities

Speaker: Rebecca Kelly, AARP State Director

Age-friendly or livable communities have walkable streets, housing and transportation options, access to key services and opportunities for residents to participate in community activities. The AARP Network of Age-Friendly Communities encourages states, cities, towns, and counties to prepare for the rapid aging of the U.S. population by paying increased attention to the environmental, economic and social factors that influence the health and well-being of older adults. By doing so, these communities are better equipped to become great places and even lifelong homes, for people of all ages.

Are Tax Incentives Necessary to Lure Jobs to Tennessee?

Panelists:

- Dr. Matt Murray, U.T. Business & Economic Research
- John Lawrence, Shelby County EDGE
- J. Thomas Trent, Attorney, Brandley Arant Boulton Cummings, LLP

Tax Increment Financing (TIF) is a tool used by state and local governments to encourage economic development. Proponents argue that tax incentives are necessary to attract businesses and that the costs of those incentives are offset by the additional tax revenue derived from the increased economic activity. Opponents maintain that tax incentives are an inefficient allocation of scarce resources. Come hear what the experts are saying about TIFs and PILOT programs.

Dr. Matt Murray

Workshop 7

Room 300 B

Ingenious Ways Local Governments are using Social Media

Speaker: Clayton Scrivner, PR and Marketing Manager, Salt Lake County Parks & Recreation

Community members of all ages and backgrounds are increasing their use of social media tools as a way to connect to each other and the issues they care about. Not surprisingly, local governments are also increasing their use of these communications channels to reach residents. This workshop will look at creative ways local governments are using social media.

Reclaiming Civility in the Public Square

Speakers: Cassandra Dahnke and

Tomas Spath, co-founders,

Institute for Civility in Government

Cassandra
Dahnke

Civility is about more than just politeness, although politeness is a necessary first step. It is about disagreeing without disrespect, seeking common ground as a starting point for dialogue about differences, listening past one's preconceptions, and teaching others to do the same. This session will review what civility makes possible, and what incivility prevents. Tips on how to maintain civility will also be shared.

TN H20: Protecting Tennessee's precious water supply

Introductory Remarks: Jim Henry, Deputy Governor
Panelists:

- Shari Meghreblian, TDEC Commissioner
- Dr. Ken Moore, Franklin Mayor
- Drexel Heidel, General Manager,
West Knox Utility District
- Hanneke Counts, Vice President, Global HSES,
Eastman Chemical Company

Moderator:

Tisha Calabrese-Benton, TDEC Deputy Commissioner

Protecting the availability of a clean and reliable water supply in Tennessee is vital to support this state's growing population and sustain economic growth. Concerns about the state's aging drinking water and wastewater infrastructure and interstate battles over water rights have stressed the need for a statewide plan for addressing water availability. Gov. Bill Haslam has appointed a steering committee of government officials, business leaders, and environmental advocates to formulate a plan to protect Tennessee's valuable water supply. Come hear how you can provide input and help protect this natural resource so that the state will continue to grow and prosper.

Jim Henry

Shari Meghreblian

Workshop 11

Room 300 B

Minimizing Online Security Threats in Your Municipality

Speaker:

Joe Howland, Chief Information Security Officer, VC3

Municipalities face an increasingly complex security landscape with new technology, emerging threats, and a responsibility to protect information. In this session we'll discuss some simple steps you can take to lessen your risk of an attack and keep your municipality and employees safe.

Workshop 12*Room 300 DDeveloping a Culture of Heroes (Part I)*

Speaker: Pat Hardy, UT-MTAS Management Consultant

This session will help participants understand the concept of “hero,” and how to fill their organizations with public service heroes. In doing so the session will focus on workplace culture and specific strategies for becoming a culture of heroes.

3:30 - 3:45 pmBreak*3:45 - 4:45 pm*Concurrent Workshops*Workshop 13Room 300 CDowntown Success Strategies*

Speaker: Dave Ivan, ECD Michigan State University

Recognizing that the downtown often serves as the “face” of a community, leaders are increasingly seeking proven strategies to add vitality to their downtown district. Using an analysis of successful downtowns, common success factors are identified. Learn the approaches other towns have used that have resulted in sustainable downtown success.

Workshop 14*Room 301 B5G Cell Service Is Coming. Who Decides Where It Goes?*

Speaker: Chad Jenkins, TML Deputy Director

Major legislation passed the Tennessee General Assembly designed to accelerate the deployment process for small cell wireless technology. Over the past year, TML has worked with the telecommunication industry to communicate the potential impacts the deployment of this new technology can have on a city’s aesthetics and the management of its rights-of-way. This session will provide a detailed analysis of the legislation and a guide for cities to follow as they deal with deployment in their area.
