Real Lessons in Crisis Leadership

Lt. Col. Robert Darling

On Sept. 11 2001, Lt. Col. Robert Darling was working in the White House Military Office when he was quickly recruited to provide his military expertise and became a key liaison between Vice President Dick Cheney, the National Security Advisor and the Pentagon. He worked directly with the National Command Authority to respond to the terrorist attacks. Darling witnessed firsthand the enormity of the crisis and leadership decisions that were made that day on behalf of all Americans. His presentation is insightful, inspirational, patriotic and will instill in every person the important role each of us play in supporting our military as they continue to defend America.

Second General Session Monday, June 24, 10:15 - 11 a.m.

How to Get Noticed in the Crowd of Location Options?

When companies seek out new communities in which to expand or relocate facilities, a range of both qualitative and quantitative factors are part of their site selection decision. Mark Arend, editor in chief of Site Selection Magazine, will discuss how the nation's leading site selectors evaluate potential locations and what it takes to land a project. This session will help city leaders better understand the competitive environment for their sites and be able to identify targets for improvement.

Workshop Session:

Sunday, June 23, 10:30 - 11:30 a.m.

How Cities Interact with the Deaf Community

Up to 10 percent of your community could be deaf or hard of hearing. Are you prepared to communicate with them? What would you do in an emergency? What does the law say is your responsibility? What resources are available to you and the families in your area? Come learn some basic, impactful information about the deaf community you serve. This interactive session is packed full of practical application and resources to put into practice.
